Diabetes Monitoring Forum Workshop

The Diabetes Monitoring Forum (DMF) invite you to attend this free interactive workshop on blood glucose monitoring.

This workshop is aimed at primary care professionals supporting people who have diabetes and monitor their own blood glucose.

It is a workshop to address the contested issues concerning the cost of blood glucose testing strips and will cover the following areas:

- What is the value of testing?
- Understanding testing
 - When should patients test their blood glucose?
 - Frequency of monitoring
 - Record the results
 - Decisions based on costs or available evidence to date?
- Lifestyle and treatment issues
- New developments
- SBGM in the community

Workshop facilitator: Sue Cradock RGN, MSc, DipN FETC Consultant Nurse in Diabetes Care for Portsmouth Hospitals NHS Trust and member of the DMF.

Who are the DMF?

The DMF is an independent group of Diabetes Specialist Healthcare Professionals who came together with the aim of helping people with diabetes better understand the role of blood glucose and ketone monitoring in diabetes management. Visit the website www.dmforum.org.uk for more information.
